

Career Services

Professional success for law students starts at the Career Services Office (CSO). Beginning with guided support during their first year, and throughout their second and third years, the CSO's experienced career counselors (each a licensed attorney) can assist students seeking jobs in their field of interest. Whether students are interested in working at a large, midsize or small firm; serving in a public service policy or advocacy position; or working in the courts or for a corporation, our CSO staff are here to help students and recent grads achieve their career goals and enhance their professional development.
